BAT RALLY COMES TOO LATE

By WILLIAM FEET.

This year Gregg person, southpaw slinger, who draws wages from the Cleveland baseball club, was just as good as his reputation here yesterday. Gregg's brilliant work in the box made the Nationals take the count, 3 to 2, but at that the home folks put up a stubborn fight and came within an ace of sending over the necessary runs to win.

Well-known baseball authorities have claimed for Gregg the distinction of being the greatest left-hand pitcher in the world. Washington fans who looked to the concrete collection yesterday are inclined to agree with these diamond wise-ones. It looked that way at any rate, for not a member of the home clan connected for a safe drive, or anything that even looked like a near hit, until the seventh. In the sixth we did a little better, but the ninth was a different story.

Davey Chapin's first pitch to the catcher, a stumbling block until just as he got to that period Groom yielded just two singles, but the Naps were evidently due to win, and there is a little satisfaction in knowing that they were forced to show in the best they had in the pitching line to turn the trick.

Nine strike-outs for Gregg and seven for Groom hint of a regular pitchers' battle. So it was until the Naps' eighth, when Mr. Robert let up, and three hits in a row, together with a wild pitch, won the game for the visitors.

Schafer on First.

Boss Griff introduced another shift in his line-up, placing Schafer on first base. Shanks was in left field, for the reason that southpaw slingers do not agree with Dan Moulter. Bad Bill Cunningham played second, and the Schenck boy came through with the clutch which gave our team two runs. Bill handled himself better than at any other time this season and looked like the whirlwind kid who took things up three years ago when he was introduced to big league society.

Features of the matinee included a peach of a throw from right field to the plate by Ray Carl Cashion, which snuffed out a run in the sixth and a one-hand catch of Birmingham's liner by Schafer in the second.

The Nationals did not get a man on first base until the third, when Gregg walked McBride and Henry, who both pulled off the double steal to perfection, but Groom fouled out to Livingston. Shanks fanned, and Foster died, Peckinbaugh to Hohnhurst.

The Naps threatened to become treacherous in their half of the sixth when Ball led off with a scratch hit and sneaked to third on Henry's poor pop to McBride. Groom fanned Peckinbaugh, and Gregg lived in Cashion, who threw out Ball at the plate.

In the Nationals' seventh, Milan led off with a single, stole second and third, but the next three hitters died in turn. Cashion and Schafer striking out.

With Birmingham out of the way in Cleveland's eighth, Livingston singled to right. Ryan also singled. Groom un-erred a wild pitch, which sent Ryan to second, but Livingston feared to take a chance to score. Ball struck out. Peckinbaugh, with three balls and two strikes on him, smashed a wicked grounder through Foster. The midge could not get his glove down in time to stop the sphere. Livingston and Ryan scored on the blow. To the press box crowd, it looked as if Empire Dinsent had previously missed a perfectly good strike on Foster.

NAPS' GREAT TWIRLER.

YEAN GREGG.

As well as in luck. Dinsent went blind on a strike Groom slipped over in the fatal eighth.

Cleveland went out in order in the first seven innings, and Gregg set the locals down as fast as they came up in the first, second, fourth, fifth, sixth, and eighth.

Henry walked the first two times up. Milan started to steal home in the seventh, after swiping second and third, but Bill Cunningham hit a pop fly to Hohnhurst, making the third out. It looked as if the Tennessee "Flyer" had the plate stolen.

The Chinese baseball team from Honolulu which played Georgetown Monday attended the game yesterday in a body, occupying seats in the upper deck of the grand stand.

Germany Schaefer hit Livingston in the head with a bat in swinging at one of Gregg's shots in the seventh, Foster being too close to the bat. No fatalities. Shades of Sandow Mertes!

Bob Groom tried to sacrifice in the third with McBride and Henry on the sacks, but knocked a pop fly in front of the plate. Livingston grabbed it, but the rest of the team was asleep and lost a chance to pull a double play.

Ball tried to bunt on his third strike in the eighth, with two men on bases, but missed the ball entirely.

In the fourth Hohnhurst hit a high one to right. Cunningham thinking Cashion had misjudged the ball backed him up in deep right, but the South Carolina slugger held on to the pill. Some fast work for Cunningham.

Buddy Ryan poled a long one to center in the fifth that had all the earmarks of a triple, but Clyde Milan, proffing by the day before when the Pacific Coast slugger hit two triples, was laying for him, and grabbed the fly.

Cleveland had a big shake up, too. Hohnhurst going back to first and Birmingham supplanting Butcher in left.

Clyde Milan swiped three more sacks. Will take an adding machine to keep up with him.

BOSTON HITS BALL HARD.
Red Sox Defeat Browns in a Garrison Finish.

Boston, May 14.—The Boston Red Sox continued their winning streak to-day, defeating the St. Louis Browns by a "Garrison finish" in the eighth inning. The score was 6 to 3. Both pitchers were hit hard when they were hit at all. Baumgartner seemed to have the game won until the eighth when the Boston heavy hitters fell on him and with a succession of singles and doubles and a three-bagger by Wagner brought over five runs. EASTERN BLANKED
BY TECHNICAL IN SCHOOL SERIES

Fred Austin Allows but Three Hits, and Blacksmiths Win,
3 to 0.

ERRORS HURT CAPITOL LADS

Holding the Eastern High aggregation nine big goose eggs yesterday on the R. Y. M. C. A. League diamond, Fred Austin and the Tech bunch won a good ball game in the scholastic series, 3 to 0.

Johnson did the hurting for the Light Blue and White club, and while he was touched for five safeties and walked three, forcing in on tally, errors by the infield gave the Manual Trainers the battle.

The game was the fastest played to date in the scholastic series, and the playing was much better than in the previous games. Bunched work on the bases cut the Blacksmiths at least two runs, while Dyer's errors in short for the Eastern tribe helped Tech on the way to a pair of the three scored.
